The Purple Martins Revisit K. E. Petre Family

Editor The Star: The last baby martin left our two bird houses about two weeks ago, but we've still been seeing them occasionally.

However, Tuesday, July 27, we received a much unexpected pleasure.

Going outside I noticed about 30 to 40 martins on our antennae, and while trying to count them I found more coming. I watched and counted for about an hour, until there were 84, and I decided no one would believe me without proof.

Hence the enclosed picture, taken with my Polaroid J-66. Only 80 birds were there when I took the picture, for by this time it was raining and the birds were beginning to leave.

In the next couple of hours of rain the martins went off in all directions, either singly or in groups of two or three or more. Sincerely,

MRS. KENNETH E. PETRE

Each martin box, as I have explained in early articles, has an arrival-departure schedule all its own—therefore my two boxes, which were evacuated July 11, don't mean a thing. What the Petre family experienced, I think, was a brief return of many families of martins from a navigational training flight for the youngsters into the Middle West and return—just before the final takeoff for Mexico and South America.

The purple martin, following the bug crop, spends four months here, four in South America, and four months on the roundtrip between continents.

Stewart's Jewelry Store Sold

Stewart's Jewelry Store, 208 S. Main Street, established here 66 years ago, has changed ownership.

The store was sold, effective August 1, to Terry Becherer. Mrs. Becherer is the former Mickey Boyett whose family lived here for many years.

The store was founded in 1905 by E. P. Stewart, a Bradley University graduate. It opened up in the Barlow Hotel, later moved to old First National Bank building on Second Street and to its present location in 1956.

E. H. Stewart, a Bradley graduate, joined his father in the firm in 1928 while living at Nashville and took over as manager in 1932. The elder Stewart retired in 1956 and E. H. Stewart took over completely.

The Becherer's are from Mt. Vernon, Ill. They spent 20 years in Aberdeen, Md. and moved to Mt. Vernon following his retirement from NESA, U.S. Navy, at Bainbridge, Md. He is a veteran of World War II, and a graduate of Bradley. Mrs. Becherer was a member of the Aberdeen School system faculty for 20 years. They are Methodists and have four children.

42% Wage Hike Settles U.S. Railway Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators announced today a contract settlement providing 42 per cent wage hikes over 42 months for about 200,000 trainmen, and said pickets would be removed from 10 strikebound railroads at noon.

Settlement of the 18-day old strikes in the dispute involving all the nation's major railroads came after a 17-hour marathon bargaining session at the Labor Department. It averted a possibility of congressional intervention to halt the crippling strikes.

The agreement also included changes in ancient railroad

More Money for Millwood Recreation

Senator John L. McClellan notified the Star by telephone Monday that the Senate had approved a $1 million increase in funds for Red River Emergency Bank Protection, which, he said should advance completic.. work in the Texarkana area.

The matter now goes to a Senate-House conference.

The Senator also said that $91,000 had been added to the Millwood Reservoir appropriation for recreation facilities.

The Senator noted that actual visitation and use of the Reservoir in 1970 was six times greater than previously estimated.

2,900 More Troops to Be Returned

SAIGON (AP) — Only small sporadic clashes were reported again today in Vietnam and Cambodia as the U.S. Command announced another 2,900-man troop cutback.

An American spokesman said there were 226,300 U.S. troops in Vietnam last Thursday, the smallest force in five and a half years. An average of 14,000 GIs a month are leaving the country. President Nixon has promised to cut troop strength to 184,000 men by Dec. 1.

Field reports said enemy gunners fired 30 mortar rounds into a South Vietnamese base camp near Tay Ninh, wounding 10 soldiers, but spokesmen in Saigon reported only one mortar round and "light casualties."

The U.S. Command said a light observation helicopter was shot down 22 miles southeast of Hue and two crew members were killed.

It was the 7,877th aircraft reported lost in the Vietnam war.

The command reported B52 bombers flew three raids in Quang Tri province—one against an enemy infiltration route 13 miles north of Khe Sanh and just below the demilitarized zone, the others against troop concentrations and bunker complexes seven miles northeast of Khe Sanh and 19 miles south of Cam Lo.

South Vietnamese helicopters reported tactical air strikes killed 200 enemy and destroyed 10 houses in Cambodia, 22 miles southwest of Neak Luong on the Mekong River.

Foot-in-Mouth Disease: Unbuttoned Lip Gets You Into Trouble

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you're bound to rue:

"It would look fine on a really young girl, honey, but I wouldn't say it does anything for you. No, definitely, it's not for you."

"Well, if you're that strapped, I guess I could let you have a couple hundred. Do you have any idea when you could pay me back?"

"Even though we're heading into a pretty stiff breeze, what do you want to bet me I can't knock it 225 yards straight down the fairway?"

"Your face looked so familiar as I was sitting down there at the other end of the bar, young lady, that I thought I'd just come over and ask if I haven't met you someplace before. Have you ever been there?"

"Some of the older execs warned me when I first joined the outfit that you were a pretty rough guy, boss, but underneath it all I figure you've got a heart like a marshmallow."

"Borrow my lawnmower? Sure. Any time. But you will bring it back by the day after tomorrow, won't you?"

"I've never let you use my car after dark yet, son, but considering how important the prom tonight is to you, I'll let you have it on one condition—that you get home by midnight."

"Here, let me jot my home phone number down on this card. If you ever need help of any kind, just ring me up."

"It's about time to get the ribbon clerks out of the game. I'll raise you $10."

"It certainly makes Europe feel closer to home after looking at the color slides of cathedral interiors you brought back from your tour last spring. We hope you'll invite us over to see them again—sometime."

"What is this junk I hear about you taking karate lessons, Marge? It's all nonsense. Show me a girl who can catch a man like me off balance and toss him over her shoulder, and I'll give you $100."

"Here's a good place to open her up and let you see what this car can really do. They never have a state cop on this stretch of road."

"I give you my word that if Mayor Lindsay of New York becomes a Democrat, I'll eat my hat—and yours, too."

"I know my economics. Take it from me, an inflation is like a cloudburst—neither can last very long. This one will be over before you know it."

"Last year she told me she wouldn't marry me if I was the last man on earth. Now that I've just won the $100,000 lottery prize, what do you think about me getting up in front of our office coffee-break gang tomorrow and proposing to her publicly-just for laughs?"

The Hasty vehicle went out of control on a curve and traveled 382 feet on the north shoulder of the road. The vehicle then came back on to the highway and traveled 100 feet before leaving the road again, traveling another 100 feet and striking a tree.

State Trooper Bobby Neel, aided by Sheriff Henry Sinyard, investigated the accident. No seat belts were in use at the time of the wreck. This accident marks the 12th accident fatality for the year in Hempstead County.

...ike Settled, Price of Steel Increased 8%

By M. W. MINARCIN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer, announced an eight per cent increase today in the price of carbon and alloy products to offset the cost of its new contract with the United Steelworkers of America.

The increase, which will become effective over the next five months, was announced less than 24 hours after the contract was agreed upon between the USW and basic steel industry in Washington, and while most mills remained idle, despite the settlement. There was uncertainty over when full production would be resumed.

The hike will apply to virtually every product turned out by U.S. Steel, a spokesman said, including sheet and strip products used in the manufacture of autos and appliances, structural steel used in the construction industry, raw pipe and conduit steel, railroad products, and plate steel used in shipbuilding and other large-scale projects.

Most of the country's other major steel producers said they were "studying" U.S. Steel's announcement and would have no immediate comment.

But if past history is followed, most of the other companies probably will follow U.S. Steel's lead within the next several days.

"To prevent further erosion under the new contract, it is necessary that we increase our net proceeds from steel mill products promptly," said a brief statement that accompanied U.S. Steel's announcement.

The company said the new contract would increase its employment costs by 15 per cent over the next year.

The new labor contract, which provided for an estimated 30 per cent wage hike spread over three years, was accepted by the United Steelworkers of America three hours before the union's midnight Sunday strike deadline. However, rank-and-file steelworkers were turned away from many plants when they tried to report for midnight shifts.

U.S. Steel Corp. turned away workers who showed up for shifts beginning shortly after the settlement Sunday night that averted the first nationwide steel strike in 12 years. And many workers could find themselves off the job during the months ahead while steel customers use up large stockpiles accumulated in anticipation of the strike that never came.

The new contract provides a minimum $1 hourly pay increase over three years, with an unlimited cost-of-living guarantee that could push the figure even higher. Steelworkers averaged $3.45 per hour in straight-time pay under their old contract.

The new contract, which the industry says will raise costs 15 per cent the first year, includes substantial improvements in pensions, life insurance and job differential pay and adds a ninth paid holiday.

85,000 Arkansas Horses Vaccinated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Richard Thomas, state veterinarian, says more than 85,000 horses in Arkansas have been vaccinated against Venuelan equine encephalomyslitis, but that there are about 130,000 of the animals in the state.

Thomas said Saturday it would take another week to complete the vaccination program. It had been estimated earlier that there were about 88,000 horses in the state.

Showers Through Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A southerly air flow from the Gulf of Mexico will bring enough moisture to trigger afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms over Arkansas through Tuesday.

The cool air mass that brought the record-breaking low temperatures to Arkansas over the weekend has modified and moved eastward. A new cold front with cooler air is moving southward very slowly and is expected to become stationary along the Missouri-Arkansas border late Tuesday.

Partly cloudy skies and high temperatures mostly in the low to mid 80s should prevail over the state through Tuesday. Showers are expected over most of the state Wednesday and Thursday, with a slight rise in temperatures by Friday. Lows through the week should be in the 60s to low 70s.

Apollo 15's Explorers Blast Off Moon for the Return Trip to Earth

Lunar Scientists Are Intrigued by Unusual Rocks Being Collected

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Lunar scientists are intrigued by the unusual rocks collected by Apollo 15 at the base of the moon's Apennine Mountains. They're eager to get them into the laboratory and find out if they might be as old as the moon itself.

"The rock is definitely the high point of the traverse," Dr. S. A. Zist of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said Sunday after astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin collected two rocks Scott excitedly described as anorthosites.

The description was followed immediately by cautious speculation the moon explorers might have found pieces of the original lunar crust formed more than four billion years ago when the moon was a molten blob beginning to cool.

"Guess what we just found," Scott said. "As a matter of fact ... oh boy, I think we might have ourselves something close to an anorthosite."

Anorthosite is a rock that contains almost 90 per cent plagioclase—a mineral composed of calcium, sodium, aluminum and silicates.

Finding pieces of anorthosite—especially pieces with large crystals as Scott and Irwin indicated their samples contained—is significant because of a popular theory that the original lunar crust might be composed of such rocks.

The anorthosite, the theory says, was carved out of the moon's primordial surface when great objects from space struck the earth satellite. The chunks rained down on certain regions of the moon forming the lunar highlands.

Apollo 15, which landed on the edge of the lunar highlands, didn't yield any large rocks that could definitely be identified as pieces of crust. Pieces of anorthosite were found on earlier missions, but they were so tiny and their origin so uncertain that no one could be sure if they were from the crust.

What is needed is a large piece of anorthosite that can easily by studied and passed around to many scientists.

The lunar experts hoped anorthosite would be more abundant on the slopes of the Apennine Mountains because more of it would have been thrown there when a 50-mile wide object struck the moon and created Imbrium Basin to the north.

The astronauts had been carefully schooled to look for it.

"That's why they got so excited. We've taken them on field trips on earth to see bodies of anorthosite so they would be familiar with it," explained Dr. Robin Brett, chief of the geochemistry branch at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Anorthosite, while rare on earth, does exist in several areas including Wyoming and the Adirondack Mountains.

"It has been the notion of most of us that anorthosite is old," said Dr. Harold Urey of the University of California at San Diego. "Of course, finding out will have to wait until we get it into the laboratory."

Most rocks on the moon that have been carefully studied to determine age are less than four billion years old.

U.S. Favors Seat for Red China in UN

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced today that the United States will favor seating of Red China at the United Nations General Assembly this fall and will oppose any move to oust the Chinese Nationalists.

"We think the realities of the world require that both be represented" in the world body, Rogers explained in issuing a long-awaited Nixon administration announcement.

He noted that Communist China has some 700 million people and Nationalist China some 14 million.

He said of the Peking regime: "After all, they represent about one-fourth of the people on the surface of the earth."

The Rogers announcement marked an historic switch from U.S. efforts over the past years to prevent Peking's entry into the United Nations.

The secretary of State left ambiguous just what position Washington would take about Communist China's replacing the Nationalists on the important U.N. Security Council. He said, however, that the United States is prepared to have this question resolved by the decision of U.N. members.

Both Red China and Nationalist China claim they represent all of China and therefore are entitled to China's seats in the General Assembly and in the Security Council.

Take Off Televised to Earthlings

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15 astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin blasted off safely from the moon today after three days of historic lunar exploration. A television camera gave earthlings their first look at a launching from the moon.

As the bug-like Falcon blazed into the lunar sky, Scott and Irwin started a tape recording of the Air Force song: "Off We Go Into the Wild Blue Yonder." Both are Air Force officers.

They immediately began the intricate maneuvers required to chase and catch astronaut Alfred M. Worden, orbiting 68 miles high in the orbiting command ship Endeavour. The two ships were to link up at 3:04 p.m. EDT.

Worden passed over Hadley Base 90 seconds before liftoff and told the moon explorers he had them in sight.

Packed with the moon explorers in the lunar module Falcon was a treasure chest of 230 pounds of rocks and soil that might include primeval rock and evidence of volcanoes on the moon.

Before leaving, the astronauts parked their moon buggy so its color television camera was pointed to transmit the pictures of the blastoff.

There was surprisingly little dust as the tiny Falcon zipped straight up and was lost from sight in about two seconds.

The engine shut down after eight minutes after hurling the craft into an orbit ranging from about 10.5 to 50 miles above the surface, very close to the desired path.

Upon completing their third and final scientific exploration on the lunar surface, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin blast off from the surface at 1:11 p.m. EDT.

They scotted their $8-million runabout about a mile through a desert-like field of shallow craters to the rim of boulder-strewn canyon, one mile across and 1,200 feet deep.

They had not intended to climb down into the canyon, but they found the upper 30 or 40 feet of the wall was a gentle slope and they walked down easily that far to a terrace. Beyond that the wall dropped off sharply.

Scott and Irwin brought back more geological treasure, hoping to equal what they gathered Sunday when they discovered what some scientists believe may be rocks dating back 4.6 billion years to the birth of the solar system. The astronauts' enthusiasm was based on the fact that the rocks, found in a crater, contain several of the large crystals of the type that may have made up original lunar crust.

The view reminded Irvin of "one of my favorite biblical passages from the Psalms—I look unto the hills from whence cometh my help ... but of course we get quite a bit from Houston, too." The reference was to Psalm 121, Verse 1.

They missed a chance to gather other possible volcanic evidence when Miss Control told them to skip a planned drive to a series of craters about two miles to the north because time was running out. The astronauts started late as a result of some minor equipment problems Sunday, and they fell farther behind schedule this morning while trying to extract a drill from the surface, a factor which irritated Scott.

Vote to Save Lockheed Uncertain

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A vacation-minded Senate has agreed to vote up or down today a bill to rescue the financially tottering Lockheed Aircraft Corp., with a $250-million loan guarantee.

The outcome is uncertain.

The Lockheed verdict topped a crowded, controversial congressional agenda on get-away week for a month's recess lasting from Friday until Sept. 8.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said if Congress is forced to step into the spreading rail strike situation, the vacation schedule might have to be pushed back.

"We just can't go on like this," he said.

After nine days of debate, the Senate has dropped a $2-billion bill authorizing loan guarantees for financially ailing businesses, and agreed to act instead on a House-approved bill to aid only Lockheed.

That $250-million measure clearly is in trouble. Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., the sponsor, would say only that the outcome will be close.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a leading opponent, said: "The chances of beating it are good."

Sponsors had fashioned the broad corporate-rescue bill to lure Senate votes for the aid that Lockheed and the administration insist is vital before mid-August to ward off bankruptcy.

But the House voted Friday night for the $250-million Lockheed guarantee, 192 to 189, and Speaker Carl Albert said it would go no further.

That led to a hasty round of Senate negotiations Satuday, and the bill was scaled back to $250 million with approval of Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

"It looks like it's going to be that or nothing, and I'm not sure they can get that," said Mansfield.

"We're in a time crunch now," said Tower. "The facts of life are the facts of life."

According to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., one of them is that five to eight Republicans who would have supported a broader corporate loan guarantee bill will vote against the Lockheed measure.

Once that issue is settled, the Senate is to take up a campaign finance reform bill, to limit political spending and require full disclosure.

Edward J. Cooper, a member of the Unity Baptist Church of Hope, has written a series of gospel songs for the purpose of bringing more money into the Baptist Missionary Association of America.

As the outgrowth of a missionary symposium he attended in Prescott last February, Mr. Cooper has written 12 gospel songs, most of which were composed within a month's time. These were recorded as a stereo album by Word Records of Waco, Texas, featuring the Unity Trio (Mrs. James Ellis, Mrs. Jerry Brown, Mrs. Clovis Hicks); Gordon Renshaw; Bob Hand, formerly of the Harvest Gleaner Hour; and Mrs. Edward Cooper.

Musicians for the group include Wanda King, organist; Mike Huckabee, bass guitarist; and Edward Cooper, pianist. The front of the album jacket was designed by Billy Dan Jones, a member of the Unity Baptist Church.

A special program will be held at the Unity Baptist Church on Friday, August 6 at 7:30 p.m. to hear a Taiwan missionary. At that time the sheet music and the record album by the Unity Music Makers will be offered to the public for the first time. All profit from the sale of both will be used in financing various phases of the mission program of the Baptist Missionary Association of America.

The Rev. Wilbur I. Bull and the Rev. Eunice B. Shaw took their wedding vows in a ceremony at the Beneficient Congregational Church.

The couple met while the bride was a minister at Mt. Desert Larger Parish on Mt. Desert Island and the Rev. Mr. Bull was serving the Oxford County United Parish out of the town of Waterford.

The Rev. Mr. Bull later moved to New Hampshire, where his first wife died last year. He retired two years.

His bride currently supervises a minister's retreat area in Chautauqua, N.Y. She also served for several years as assistant pastor, and later, pastor of the church in which they were married.

"I am happy to announce an agreement has just been reached on a new labor contract that would end the railroad strike," Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery said.

"It has proved once again that if negotiators will be honest with one another and be fair with each other, collective bargaining will work," said President Charles Luna of the striking AFL-CIO United Transportation Union.

"We are very happy that this long dispute has ended and that a satisfactory agreement has been reached," said John P. Hilpz, chief negotiator for the nation s railroad industry.

Asked if the 42 per cent wage hike was considered inflationary, Hilpz said "I guess all settlements are somewhat inflationary."

The workers involved now average $3.50 per hour.

Sudan Breaks With Russia, Bulgaria

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sudanese government has recalled its ambassadors from Moscow and Sofia and threatened to break diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported today.

The regime of President Jaafar el Numairi issued a statement Sunday charging both the Soviet Union and Bulgaria with intervention in Sudan's internal affairs, the Egyptian agency said.

The statement deplored the "vile propaganda campaign" against Numairi's government by the Soviet press because of the crackdown on the Sudanese Communists following their unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Numairi last month. The Bulgarian Embassy in Khartoum had been accused of a major role in the plot to oust Numairi and install a pro-Communist regime.

"We may give the Kremlin a chance to explain the motives behind the campaign against us," said one high-ranking Sudanese, "and then break all our relations with the Soviet Union."

The executions of leaders of the attempted coup was accompanied by increasing criticism from the Soviet Union and its allies, climaxing Saturday with a warning from Tass that Moscow might break relations with Khartoum. This would cut off Sudan's present source of arms, but one Sudanese official commented: "We can get arms from any other country. We can do without the Soviet arms."

Elsewhere in the Arab world, Libyan leader Muammar Kadafi complained about Arab disunity and attacked Arab monarchs for failing to support the Palestinian guerrilla movement against King Hussein of Jordan.

Speaking at a news conference Sunday in Tripoli, Kadafi described as "contempible" those Arab rulers "who do not abide by their obligations and refrain from contributing arms and men in support of the Palestinian cause." He named no names, but presumably he was referring to Kings Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Hassan of Morocco.

The 29-year-old colonel also claimed that the mini-summit Arab conference he sponsored last week adopted a secret resolution against Hussein, but he gave no details. The communique issued by the conference Saturday warned the Jordanian king against repression of the guerrillas—something he has already accomplished—but called for no concrete action against him. Only five of the 14 Arab chiefs of state attended along with Yasir Arafat, chief of the Al Fatah guerrilla organization.

IMPORTANT DEVICE

REHOVOT, Israel (AP) — An Israeli scientist has invented a device for measuring the heartbeat under battlefield conditions.

The apparatus is intended to solve a problem which has long vexed doctors and medics: determining which of a number of seriously injured accident victims to treat first.

Prof. David Danon calls his invention the "toy" because of its small size, but it is known officially as the Heart Potential Detector (HPD).

Lockheed Vote Considered "Too Close"

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The graying lobbyist for a New York bank walked down the marble stairs of the Capitol after the House's narrow vote for a $250 million loan for Lockheed and said:

"That was about as close as you can get. The only trouble is it was too close."

Still beset by uncertainty, the bid to rescue Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from the threat of bankruptcy comes to a showdown in the Senate this afternoon.

The Senate vote was set up by the House's 192-189 passage Friday night of the bill to put a government guarantee behind $250 million more in bank loans for Lockheed, the nation's largest defense contractor.

Much of the nation's air industry has a stake in the Senate outcome:

—Lockheed, pinched by huge cost overruns on its C5A jumbo transport and hurt worse by possible Rolls-Royce failure to deliver the TriStar's jet engines, says its survival is in doubt unless it gets the $250 million loan.

—A combine of 24 banks, including such giants as Bank of America, Chase Manhattan, and Bankers Trust, have $400 million invested in the TriStar, but say any further loan is too risky to make without a government guarantee.

—England has fixed an Aug. 8 deadline on its government subsidy for Rolls-Royce, the engine firm that went bankrupt, unless the U.S. government props up Lockheed.

—Three airlines, TWA, Eastern and Delta, already have paid $221 million toward advance purchases of the Lockheed TriStar. But TWA has an Aug. 15 date coming up to decide on a possible switch to the rival DC-10 jet.

—McDonell Douglas, whose DC-10 starts flying on United's Washington - San Francisco route Aug. 16, will gain jetliner orders if Lockheed fails. General Electric, which makes the DC-10 engines, will also be a big winner.

—The Machinists' union, which has 40,000 members employed at Lockheed, fears a major job loss if the TriStar program crashes.

—The Nixon administration is chary of both the economic and political impact of a Lockheed collapse, sure to spread even more unemployment in an already depressed industry.

In the fight, the hideaway office of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew at the edge of the Senate chamber has become a battlefront command center. From it, Undersecretary of the Treasury Charles E. Walker and other Nixon lieutenants run what one Lockheed critic calls "a real boiler room operation" seeking loan support.

Would Erase Vetrans' Dishonor

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's American Legion has adopted a resolution calling for a presidential review board with authority to erase the stigma of dishonor for Vietnam veterans discharged as drug addicts.

The resolution passed at the state convention here Sunday provides for the board to declare drug addiction involving veterans as a service connected disability. It calls for permitting GI addicts to secure treatment at Veterans Administration Hospitals.

NATIONAL Legion Commander Alfred P. Chamie of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said he will urged every Legion post in the nation to consider a similar proposal.

Ex-Beatles Concert Is Smash Hit

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Music Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — George Harrison and Ringo Starr, two Beatles who last appeared together on stage four years ago, performed at two sold-out benefit concerts Sunday with a rock music star whose public appearances have been nearly as rare as theirs.

Bob Dylan sang at both afternoon and evening performances at Madison Square Garden to benefit refugees displaced by strife in East Pakistan. Dylan last appeared on stage two summers ago at Britain's Isle of Wight rock festival.

All performers on the show, billed as "George Harrison and Friends," donated their services. Both 21,000-seat concerts were sold out and sponsors hoped to raise $250,000.

Harrison received a standing ovation when he walked out on stage to announce his first "friend," Ravi Shankar, a sitar player from India. But applause was greater 90 minutes later when Dylan walked out, with harmonica and guitar, and wearing tan pants and denim jacket.

In the afternoon Harrison announced Dylan. In the evening concert, his name was never said from the stage. One fan, who said he had previously heard the Beatles but never Dylan, kept muttering, "It's too much. It's just too much."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

WILL THE REAL COLUMNIST PLEASE STAND UP?

Dear "Helen Knock Us":

That should be your name!

Troubled people have the courage to write you their problems and I have yet to see ONE letter that you have answered in a nice way. All you do is downgrade and brush them off.

I suppose you won't print this because someone is putting you down, but that just proves you're afraid of the truth. Or else you'll come back with a smart crack.

Why don't you write long, serious answers that really tell people what to do? Humor has no place in an advice column!—ALL FED UP

Dear AFU:

Had you enclosed your name and address, I'd have sent you a long personal reply, proving with examples that I never take troubled correspondents lightly, but . . . Gosh, how I welcome humorous-type questions which shout for quips and one-liners.

Why don't I write "long, serious answers that really tell people what to do"? Even if space permitted, I'd balk at boring readers and "playing God." A counselor doesn't "tell people"; she tries to make them think for themselves.

Now, friend, isn't it just possible you've formed a preconceived notion, based on what you've read and heard about other newspaper "advisers"? Perhaps my "fast" answers jump out and grab you, while my lengthier discussions—well, two dozen lines of solid print are a bit much for SOME people. (Besides, you've got this image of me. Why read yourself out of it?)

So often we see only what we're looking for-and that goes for the next letter too; which makes me feel guilty because I suspect I don't fit THIS image either, though I wish I could!

Dear Helen:

I have enjoyed your very warm and understanding compassion toward human problems . . . I'm so thankful for your humor and your witty, pithy remarks, as well as your empathy and almost uncanny way of getting to the heart of the problem in a few words-making your readers THIN. You're the kind of person I've always wanted to be, and I wish we had you for our next-door neighbor. Our whole family considers you a personal friend, though we've never met you.—D.S.C.

Dear D.:

Thanks, pal. I needed that!!!

And I'm SO glad your letter came in the same mail with "Fed Up's" diatribe, because it offered an excuse for printing a bouquet. (I hardly ever do, unless my much-appreciated fan proves a point about human nature.)—H.

Dear Helen:

Since it appears most smut advertising is "legal" now, how can we keep pornographic mail from arriving at our house?—DISGUSTED

Dear Dis:

This kind of "literature" must be so designated on the outside of the envelope. To keep it out of your house, complete Postal Service Form 2201 now available at your local Post Office, and your name will be added to those not wishing to receive advertisements defined as "sexually oriented."

I'm hoping for the day when lists grow so long that smut dealers write off direct mail ads as unprofitable . . . And when THAT happens, hard-core pornography may also go out of style at movie houses and adult book stores! With exploitative sex-after initial shock and voyeurism—what is there left but sheer boredom? (Note I said "exploitative")—H.

PERSONAL TO "APPREHENSIVE": No, you are not legally required to put "Sex Oriented" on the envelopes of letters addressed to your boy friend. This isn't advertising . . or is it?—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

BETTER ROADS HELP

CHICAGO (AP) Family vacationers traveling by automobile this summer will do about 57 per cent of their driving on the interstate highway system and they will cover more miles in less time than it took 10 years ago.

Comparing driving time maps in two Road Atlas editions of Rand McNally annuals shows that driving time from Chicago to San Francisco has been cut by 15 hours

Television and Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The condition of network programming, suffering a bad case of summer anemia, improved dramatically over the weekend. First there was the spectacular, live moon exploring by astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin, with fine pictures that once again gave viewers a ringside seat on history in the making.

Added to this was CBS's premiere program on Sunday of its imported "Six Wives of Henry VIII," preceded by the first "Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour," a summer replacement vareity hour that avoided cliches and that low-budget, jerry-built look.

The three major networks stuck with the moon explorers through the long hours of their expeditions in the rover. Each network had its own visiting experts—present and former astronauts who were able to contribute some interesting sidelights and interpretations. The network men had, as usual, done their homework so well they seemed almost as knowledgeable as their guests.

But, for the viewer, the excitement was watching Scott and Irwin bouncing around the moon's dusty surface, picking up rocks and describing, with the excitement of two small boys on their first camping trip, what they were seeing and experiencing.

The first of the six 90-minute programs in the British Broadcasting Company's ambitious series on the 16th Century English monarch was, perhaps, the weakest in the sextet in terms of dramatic construction. There was just to much history over too many years to be covered before the program could move into the troubled marriage of the King and Catherine of Aragon. Then there were 20 years of marriage that began as a love match and ended in disaster and the break with the Roman Catholic Church.

Beautifully produced—the settings and costumes were magnificent—the program introduced us to the young Henry, a golden figure full of affection and warmth. But there had to great gaps in time in which he aged abruptly on screen until he became a huge, imperious—and unsympathetic—figure. The role of Catherine suffered in the same way.

A preliminary refresher course on Henry's reign would have helped the viewer bridge the time gaps and will be even more helpful in the succeeding installments.

Sonny and Cher, once a singing team, have emerged in their new series as a comedy team that also sings. The program relies heavily on Cher's dead pan comedy delivery while Sonny serves as her straight, indulging in broad clowning.

The National Report on What's Happening

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

TONGUE-IN-CHEEK T-SHIRTS—As a group of us walked into one of New York's well-known niteries in order to conduct an interview, the men in the party were stopped at the door and told they couldn't enter because they weren't wearing jackets and ties.

But hold on, people, here's something that will perplex even the smoothest doormen. It's a set of four cotton T-shirts called Whymsy Shirts that just might get past the strictest dress regulations. The shirts meet any occasion with prints in dinner jacket, blazer, shirt and tie and knockabout styles. Doormen will have to think twice before stopping someone wearing one.

AN OPEN-MINDED OBSERVATION—In an interview with Attorney General John Mitchell, staff members of "Business Today," a student magazine, were somewhat taken aback by Mitchell's comments on students.

The attorney general stated, "I have found in meeting with students that they have pretty closed minds. This disturbs me very much. They get all of their information out of the campus press or the underground press. They don't have open minds and they are not willing to listen —they are not willing to undertake a debate."

IN SEARCH OF A LEAD—The Temptations are still minus a lead to replace Eddie Kendricks. Ricky Owens, who took the lead position probationally, will be leaving.

FILLMORE FOLLOW-UP—The rumors of a Fillmore East takeover are stronger than ever. The most likely successor to Bill Graham seems to be Howard Stein, who owns the Capitol Theater in Port Chester. Stein is planning many summer concerts in the city and is getting a lot of the closed Fillmore's business, but he hasn't announced any definite plans for his expected takeover.

TWO YEARS LATER—Two years after Woodstock, and people are still running off to every festival in hopes of repeating the Woodstock experience. So far none of the festivals has approached its success.

Some people thought that the Celebration of Life Festival would be another Woodstock. It wasn't. The people who made it down to McCrea, La., celebrated life in the midst of garbage, inadequate sanitation facilities, a lack of food and water and the hoax of seeing only eight of the 27 advertised groups. The security problems weren't solved by the motorcycle gangs hired to keep the peace. Instead they brought about brutality and needless bloodshed.

SPORTS

Boston 5-1, 6-1 Over Chicago

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox were counting on Wood, but didn't count on the Boston Red Sox knocking on Wood.

Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner had announced he might start knuckleballer Wilbur Wood in both ends of Sunday's doubleheader with Boston.

But the Red Sox spoiled Tanner's plans and Wood's day by ripping into the left-handed ace for four runs in the first inning enroute to a 5-1 triumph in the opener.

And Boston added insult to injury by completing a sweep with a 6-1 victory in the nightcap.

Wood's transition from the bullpen to a starting berth this year had resulted in a 12-7 record and 1.06 earned run average prior to Sunday's blastoff.

Tanner had said he would allow his star pitcher to make a rare double appearance in one day only if "all conditions were perfect and if Wood wanted to try it."

In Sunday's other American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers swept a pair from the Washington Senators, 4-3 and 3-2; the Minnesota Twins outslugged the New York Yankees 10-7; the Detroit Tigers nipped the California Angels 4-3 in 16 innings and the Oakland A's stopped the Cleveland Indians twice, 7-3 and 4-2. Rain washed out Kansas City at Baltimore.

In the National League, Houston bombed Montreal 8-1; Los Angeles trimmed Cincinnati 5-4 in 11 innings; San Diego turned back Atlanta 2-0; San Francisco took doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 11-7 and 8-3 and Chicago beat New York 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader before rain washed out the nightcap. St. Louis and Philadelphia were tied 3-3 when rain forced postponement of their contest after 11 innings.

Tanner said the idea to start Wood twice was planted two weeks ago when the southpaw said he could have worked both ends of a twin bill. Wood had been the warhorse of the White Sox bullpen for the last three years, during which he appeared in 241 games. His peak performance came in 1968 when he set a league record by pitching in 88 games.

He attributes his staying power to his hard-to-hit knuckler, which he throws 80 per cent of the time.

Incidentally, the last pitcher to try to work a complete doubleheader was Don Newcombe of the old Brooklyn Dodgers. He won the opener and lasted seven innings of the nightcap before leaving for a pinch-hitter.

Actually, Wood's sendoff Sunday wasn't all his fault. The White Sox kicked in three errors in the opening game to help things along for Boston.

Wood lasted seven innings, giving up all the Red Sox runs and 10 hits, before being lifted for a pinch-hitter.

In the second game, George Scott and Reggie Smith decided matters for Boston in the fourth inning with home runs that provided a 4-0 cushion for Gary Peters.

Bobby Mitchell blasted his first two major league homers—a three-run shot in the first game and a two-run belt in the second—to power Milwaukee's sweep.

Mitchell, acquired in a June 7 trade, hit a 410-foot homer to stake the Brewers to a 4-0 lead in the opener. His second-game wallop erased a 2-1 Washington lead in the sixth.

Minnesota raked Mel Stottlemyre for six straight hits at the start of the game, then withstood four New York homers to beat the Yankees. The Twins sent 11 men to bat in the six-run first before Ron Blomberg slugged two homers and Bobby Murcer and Thurman Munson, one apiece for New York.

Jim Northrup, who had struck out his four previous appearances, drilled his 11th homer of the year in the 16th inning to power Detroit over California. Northrup's homer came off reliever Lloyd Allen, who had been working since the ninth inning, and ended the marathon, five-hour contest.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a five-hitter and Gene Tenace and Rick Monday blasted homers to power Oakland's first-game success over Cleveland.

An error by second baseman Kurt Bevacqua opened the door for two unearned runs in the fifth inning to give the A's the second game.

Standing Ovation for Brown

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — All week long Jimmy Brown had been pestered by one question as he awaited induction into pro football's Hall of Fame—how do you feel?

The sometimes controversial, always outspoken Brown never answered. Would he criticize the pro football establishment as he has since retiring from the sport? Why was he withholding his answer?

Maybe Brown was assessing the situation—for when he assessed it the former great running back for the Cleveland Browns turned leading Hollywood personality—seemed genuinely moved.

And when he stepped to the podium Saturday he left no doubt how he felt, a somber, bronze figure set off from the six other inductees by a mod white knit suit that molded itself snugly to the physique that had rushed for 12,312 yards.

It was a day for honoring not only Brown but the late coach, Vince Lombardi, quarterbacks Y.A. Tittle and Norm Van Brocklin, defensive end Andy Robustelli and two oldtimers, from the two-way era, end Bill Hewitt and Tackle Frank "Bruiser" Kinard.

"I want to talk about three things," Brown, a Browns' star in the mid 50's and 60's said. "First, during this morning's parade, I had a fantastic time because the people responded and made me feel wanted.

"And my mother is here today. She had a tough struggle when I was a little boy. I want to thank her—because I never tell her.

"Finally I want to thank the people of Manhasset (a Long Island town where Brown grew up) who came into my life when it could have taken any turn."

Then he paused, and added:

"The arrogant, bad Jimmy Brown can be humble when he is given true love."

And he got more love—in the form of a standing ovation.

But there were other moments to remember from the enshrinement ceremonies in this city where the National Football League was formed 51 years ago.

There was Vince Lombardi Jr., accepting on his dad's behalf and passing on the applause to his mother, Marie, seated in the audience.

There was Tittle, the emotional quarterback of the New York Giants, tears welling in his eyes as he spoke and revealing, "I promised my wife I wouldn't get this way."

And, finally, there was Hewitt's daughter, Mary Ellen Hewitt Cocozza, accepting on behalf of her late father, saying, "My only regret is that my father is not here to reap the harvest of his efforts."

To those who knew, it was a poignant moment, for Hewitt died in an automobile accident in 1947 at the age of 37—before his daughter was born.

Following the induction ceremonies, the Los Angeles Rams went out and defeated the Houston Oilers 17-6 with rookie quarterback John Walton tossing a pair of touchdown strikes.

Friday night, the Baltimore Colts edged the College All-Stars 24-17 in Chicago.

Saturday was also the trading deadline in the NFL and there was a flurry of activity.

Duane Thomas, one of the top runners in the league last year as a rookie, who was holding out in a pay dispute with Dallas, was sent to the New England Patriots by the Cowboys.

Leaving along with Thomas for Boston was offensive guard Halvor Hagen and rookie wide receiver Honor Jackson. Dallas received hard running third-year man Carl Garrett and boston's No. 1 draft choice in 1972.

In another deal, the Cowboys received offensive tackle Don Talbert from New Orleans in exchange for defensive end Doug Mooers and a draft choice.

The Patroits also sent starting linebacker John Bramlett to the Green Bay Packers in exchange for defensive tackle Rich Moore.

The Rams picked up offensive tackle Joe Taffone from Cleveland for a player to be named and two future draft choices and added Mike Wilson, a defensive end, from the Cincinnati Bengals, for a 1972 draft choice.

The Colts traded wide receiver Roy Jefferson to Washington for Texas' rookie Cotton Speyrer and the Redskins' No. 1 1973 draft choice.

The New York Giants acquired offensive tackle Larry Gagner from the Pittsburgh Steelers, giving up two 1972 draft choices while the Kansas City Chiefs obtained Karl Weis, a tight end from the Chicago Bears for a draft choice.

In training action, the Giants lost receiver Don Herrmann for at least six weeks when he broke his collarbone Saturday. And the Rams' kick-return specialist Alvin Haymond will be out for two weeks as a result of a fractured cheek bone he received in Saturday's victory over the Oilers.

KDKA was the nation's first radio broadcasting station. It began operation in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1920.

Cuba Upsets US in PanAm Basketball

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CALI, Colombia (AP) — Cuba beat the United States at its own game.

Basketball-invented, refined and mastered within Uncle Sam's reach—suddenly joined sugarcane and cigars as the prime exports of Castro's island.

Cuba's silky but strong team upset the USA Giants 73-69 Sunday in the Pan American Games to ignite a showing of cheers, tears and adulation for their system among the men in red.

"We had the confidence we could defeat the United States—or anybody else," said well-groomed, 33-year-old Cuban Coach Carmelo Ortega. "What happened is good for Cuba."

Alejandro Urgelles, a potent 6-foot-7 rebounder, blurted out, "Viva Cuba. We won for Cuba."

It was the first U.S. loss in Pan Am play since the 1955 Games at Mexico City when Argentina pulled a less-noticed shocker. Even that year, the Yanks came back to win the tournament.

There's still a chance this time, too, but Jim Gudger, the USA coach from East Texas State, must regroup and generate enough power to even reach the six-nation finals.

Then, there might be a second confrontation with the now-cocky Cubans.

"We just got outplayed," said Gudger. "Cuba didn't surprise me, but they may have surprised our kids. My greatest worry with this team was a lack of maturity. Maybe this will pull us together."

There have been complaints that the Pan Am aggregation was missing some of the finer eligible players, either because they're not chosen or because they don't care to compete.

"Let's not make any excuses," said the tall, graying Gudger.

"Our talent is fine. We're just young, that's all. We can play much better than we did against Cuba. Now we have to prove it."

Cuba jumped ahead 14-13 after 10 minutes and never fell out of the lead. The USA twice whittled the deficit to one in the final moments, but never had the firepower to catch up.

Jim Chones of Marquette scored 11, but was outplayed by 6-foot-6 Cuban dynamo Pablo Chappe, who hit 25 and rebounded like a 71-footer.

The Cubans said their team was composed of "college boys," but the USA coach claimed, "Chappe has been around for 11 or 12 years."

US Favored in PanAm Games Today

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CALI, Colombia (AP) — Uncle Sam's track and field strong men today should spread more balm over the indignity of a rare basketball defeat in the sixth Pan American Games.

Although the USA Sunday grabbed gold medals in four of the five men's track finals, the big Cuban delegation reacted as though Fidel Castro's island won the entire hemphispheric show with a 73-69 basketball upset of the U.S. cage team.

It was only the second time since a 1955 upset by Argentina at Mexico City, the United States had bowed on a Pan Am hardwood court.

Over-all, the USA contingent, outnumbered numerically by Cuba and Canada, was temporarily deadlocked in the contest for gold silver and bronze medals with a two-day bag of 21, including eight gold.

Cuba, also had 21 including six gold, but only one in the showcase sport of track and field with a triumph in the women's discus. Canada came up with 12 total medals, a surprising three golds in women's track.

The USA, which lost only the 100-meter and marathon in the men's 1967 track competition at the last Pan Am Games at Winnipeg, was favored in all four masculine finals in today's third session of the sox-day carnival at the main Pascual Guerrero Stadium.

The U.S. men's track powerhouse, shut out only thus far by Jamaican Don Quarries' 100-meter triumph Sunday, was favored in today's four finals.

Three gold medals should come from musclemen, including Kansas strong boy Karl Slab in the shotput, Bill Skinner in the javelin, and 230-pound Russ Hodges in the windup of the two-day decathlon grind.

A four USA winner could be hot Olympic prospect Steve Prefontaine in the 5,000 meters, adding to Pan Am record-breaking distance victories already scored by Marty Liquori in the 1,500 meters Sunday and Frank Shorter in the 10,000 meters Saturday.

The U.S. track gals, producing 100-meter hurdler Mrs. Patty Jean Johnson as an impressive winner Sunday, today will try for a second gold medal in the sixth women's event to date, the high jump. The U.S. entry includes 15-year-old Susan Kay Parks and Brenda Simpson.

It was hardly any contest in men's track Sunday as John Smith, the USA's new 440-yard world record claimant, sped to a Pan Am 400-meter record of 44.6 and Villanova's Liquori easily cruised to a record 1,500-meter mark in 3:42.1.

Sunday evening's third Pan Am record was Rick Drescher's surprise discus victory over USA team mate Tim Vollmer with a toss of 204.3. The USA also scored a 1-2 sweep by Goetz Klopfer and Tom Dooly in the 20-kilo walk.

The sting of Sunday's stunning USA basketball loss to the well-drilled Cubans was shrugged off by U.S. Coach Jim Cudger of East Texas State.

Controversial Game Won by L.A. Dodgers

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cather's interference, a balk and a run batted in are not unusual in a baseball game ... but all on the same play?

The rare parlay occurred Sunday on the final play in the Los Angeles-Cincinnati game and gave the Dodgers a 5-4, 11-inning victory over the Reds in a controversy-filled contest.

The situation was this:

The Dodgers had tied the score 4-4 with one run in the bottom of the 11th, had the bases loaded with two out and the count was one strike on Willie Crawford.

On the next pitch by Cincinnati reliever Joe Gibbon, third base runner Manny Mota broke for the plate. Catcher Johnny Bench grabbed for the ball and put a tag on the sliding Mota.

However, home plate Umpire Harry Wendelstedt did not make a safe or out call on Mota. Instead, he ruled that Bench prevented Crawford from being free to swing at the pitch—thus the catcher's interference call.

According to Rule 7.07, on such a play, the pitcher is charged with a balk. And according to Rule 10.04 (a), the batter is credited with an RBI.

Meanwhile, in the rest of the National League, San Francisco completed a four-game sweep over Pittsburgh, beating the Pirates 11-7 and 8-3; San Diego blanked Atlanta 2-0 with the help of a triple play; Houston walloped Montreal 8-1; Chicago edged New York 3-2 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader, then the second game was rained out, and St. Louis and Philadelphia battled to an 11-inning 3-3 tie in a game called by rain.

In the American League, Oakland swept a twinbill from Cleveland 7-3 and 4-2; Milwaukee took two games from Washington 4-3 and 3-2; Boston whipped Chicago 5-1 and 6-1; Minnesota outslugged New York 10-7; Detroit outlasted California 4-3 in 16 innings, and Kansas City at Baltimore was postponed by rain.

Wendelstedt, after making his instantaneous call that drew the ire of Bench and Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, said later:

"Bench jumped in front of the plate, and he has to give the batter the opportunity to hit the ball. You cannot deprive the man of a chance to swing."

Bench and Anderson both argued vehemently on the call and continued yelling at the umpire as he headed for his dressing room through the screen behind home plate. But it did no good.

Mota said that when he reached third, he immediately considered stealing home. First, however, he asked third base coach Danny Ozark, who told him to wait for one pitch and then take off.

That's exactly what Mota did, then he lit out for home. "I thought I could take the chance," he said.

Crawford was as surprised as the Reds when he saw Mota streaking for the plate. "I didn't know the play was on," he said.

It was the second interference play in the game. The other call also went against the Reds.

The first interference ruling came in the sixth with the Dodgers leading 1-0. The Reds had filled the bases with none out on singles by pitcher Jim McGlothlin, Pete Rose and Ty Cline, when Bench hit a grounder to shortstop Maury Wills.

Interference was ruled against Rose, and he was declared out. McGlothlin, who apparently had scored, was made to return to third. He then came home on a sacrifice fly by Tony Perez. Following that, Bernie Carbo walked, filling the bases again. Then, catcher Tom Haller threw the ball unneccessarily to second, and Cline, attempting to steal home, was out on a return throw by Wills.

The Dodgers broke the 1-1 tie with runs in the sixth and eighth, but their former teammate, Al Ferrara, slammed a two-run pinch homer with two out in the ninth, making it 3-3. Perez homered in the top of the 11th for a 4-3 Cincinnati lead, but the Dodgers deadlocked it in the bottom of the inning on Joe Ferguson's pinch single, an error by Gibbon on a bunt, a wild pitch, an intentional walk and a hit batsman.

Then, Mota made his daring move, the arguments began and the game was over.

The Giants' two victories built their National League West lead to nine games over Los Angeles and reduced the Pirates East lead over St. Louis to 8½ games.

San Francisco overcame a 7-6 deficit in the opener with five runs in the eighth inning, the first two on Willie Mays' bases-loaded double and the others on Willie McCovey's 14th homer. Earlier, Bobby Bonds homered for the Giants and Al Oliver and Roberto Clemente connected for the Pirates.

In the nightcap, rookie Dave Kingman, who helped beat the Pirates Saturday with his first major league homer—a grand slammer—blasted a pair of two-run homers. They enabled the Giants to overcome two solo homers by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, who raised his major league leading totals to 38 homers and 100 runs batted in.

San Diego pulled its triple play against Atlanta in the seventh inning. After Earl Williams singled and Hal King walked, second baseman Don Mason speared Oscar Brown's sharp liner, threw to first baseman Nate Colbert doubling up King. Colbert then fired to shortstop Enzo Hernandez, tripling up Williams.

Clay Kirby blanked the Braves on five hits.

Jimmy Wynn belted a two-run homer for the Astros and Doug Rader had a solo shot against the Expos.

Juan Pizarro, in a rare start for Chicago, spaced six hits in outdueling Mets' ace Tom Seaver. Ex-Met Jim Hickman contributed to key singles for the Cubs.

The rain at Philadelphia washed out a three-run rally by St. Louis in the top of the 12th inning. Roger Freed drove in all three Phils runs.

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Rocky Mount pitcher Danny Fife pitched a no-hitter Sunday afternoon as he led the Leafs to a 2-1 triumph over the Lynchburg Twins in the second game of a Carolina League doubleheader. The Twins won the first game, 2-0.

Fife walked only four men, but three of them came in the first inning. Mark Carlson scored the only run for the Twins as he walked, went to second on another walk, on to third when Sly Harvey grounded out, and scored on a passed ball.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Ritchie Sofman, a former national AAU wrestling champion, has been appointed assistant wrestling coach at Harvard. A 1965 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Sofman won the 125-pound AAU title in 1966 and 1968.

Grenback finished the round with a 78, and Johnson had a 79.

Palmer Nicklaus Win Meet

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Is there a chance that the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus combo might be broken up in team competition?

"Not so far as I know," Palmer said Sunday after he and Nicklaus had scored a wire-to-wire, six-stroke victory in the National Team championship. "We'll play together again next year."

The two have an unmatched history of success in team play. They've won this event—in which scoring is based on the better ball of each team on each hole—three of the last four times it's been played. They combined to win four World Cup titles for the United States.

And they made a rout of this weather-plagued tournament on Palmer's home course, the 7,045-yard, par 71 Laurel Valley Golf Club layout that was almost made unplayable by a series of rains that disrupted the tournament and forced a 36-hole windup on Sunday.

The defending champions had a four stroke lead when the day's play began at 6:30 a.m., EDT, led by three at the end of the morning round and simply coasted in as the challenge of Julius Boros and Bill Collins faded in the stretch.

About the only excitement was provided by the rain, which held up play for 21 minutes late in the day and threatened to again postpone things. Palmer reeled off three birdies in a string of four holes on the front side and Nicklaus birdied the 10th and 11th and it was all over. They had a final round 66.

They finished with a 257 total, 27 under par, Boros, the 51-year-old National Seniors champ, and Collins, closed with a 69 for 263. They were tied for second at that figure with Australian Bruce Devlin and New Zealand left Bob Charles, who had a 66.

Texas veterans Miller Barber and Don January and a pair of non-winning tour regulars, John Schlee and Bob Smith tied for fourth at 264. The Hill brothers, Dave and Mike, were alone at 265 after Mike pitched in from 30 yards for a birdie on the final hole.

It was the fourth title of the season for both Palmer and Nicklaus. The $20.000 apiece they picked up from the total purse of $200,000 pushed Nicklaus' earnings for the season to $187,763 and Palmer's to $184,799, second and third behind Lee Trevino, who missed the cut for the final two rounds and failed to add to his $197,219 total.

Bold Reason Now Regular Winner

By EARL GERHEIM
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bold Reason, third in the prestigious Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, has since become a regular fixture in the winner's circle at major American tracks.

William A. Lewin's mount, ridden by Laffit Pincay, unleashed a burst of speed down the stretch Saturday to win the $138,200 American Derby at Arlington Park and register his fifth consecutive victory.

It was the 3-year-old's sixth triumph in 15 starts this season, paid him $81,950 and fattened his season bankroll to $236,122. Bold Reason, who traveled the 1⅛ mile in 1:52 3-5 and paid $4.20 to win, surged to the front midway down the stretch to edge out Mr. Pow Wow by a half length. Mr. Pow Wow withstood a strong challenge from Northfields for the place position.

Favored Chevron Flight, $6.60 turned back a determined bid by Sigmund Sommer's Chaffeur to win the $117,550 Sapling Stakes by a head at Monmouth Park. Chevron Flight covered the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. Chaffeur crossed the finish line a comfortable four lengths ahead of King of Cornish.

Gene Mori's Twin Time, a 15-1 underdog, raced to an upset victory in the $57,300 Minuteman Handicap at Liberty Bell but then had to wait until a foul claim was disallowed before the triumph was made official.

It was the first stakes victory for Twin Time, who raced the 1 1-16 miles in 1:45 and paid $32.40 to win. Holmestretch was 1½ lengths behind for the place finish.

Run The Gantlet, a 3-year-old colt from the Rokeby Stable, used a closing rush to notch his first stakes victory and win the $61,000 Tidal Handicap at Aqueduct Race Track. The horse toured the 1⅛ mile in 1:51 3-5.

Bobby Woodhouse piloted Run The Gantlet to a four-length margin over Royal Harmony, who finished second by a head over On The Track.

Veteran Bill Shoemaker guided heavily favored Advance Guard to victory in the $22,400 San Diego Handicap at Del Mar. Advance Guard scrambled the 1 1-16 miles in 1:41 and paid backers $3.60 to win. Far To Reach finished 1½ lengths behind.

Sunday's feature at Rockingham Park was won by Hail Y'All, who ran the mile in 1:46 4-5 and paid $15.60 to win

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

American Conference: Eastern Division

1—BALTIMORE COLTS

PROSPECTUS—Go ahead and knock Colts. Everybody's doing it. Mediocre runners, creaky QBs, limbo coaches. No all-pros, either. But they WON. And feel they'll win again because they've got the intangibles—poise, cohesion, tradition—kind of stuff that was pooh-poohed as college rah-rah. They also have the big question marks because of age attrition that no amount of confidence can blot out. Press box crabcakes are still the best, though.

Offense

PASSING — Blame it on handball — Johnny Unitas possibly shot his career in a winter exercise which snapped Achilles tendon. He's 38 and Earl Morrall's only year younger. Switch of Sam Havrilak will take time. Can geriatrics prevail again? Rating—C.

RECEIVING — Grabber. Club's strongest department, with Eddie Hinton, Roy Jefferson flashy as they come in stretch jumpsuits (off field) or snug pads (on field). Even fat cat John Mackey at tight end can't afford to loaf, with Tom Mitchell pushing him. Rating—A−.

RUNNING — Lots of tortoises, no hare. Colts proved balanced offense was a myth when top rusher, rookie Norm Bulaich, gained 429. While pinching themselves, they drafted Don McCauley. But he's same type of straight-ahead plugger. And they're even dreaming Tom Matte can come back in 11th season, age 32. Rating—B−.

Defense

LINE—Billy Ray Smith, the Rabbit, finally went chomping into retirement, which leaves Colts with little less soul. But physically young Jim Bailey will fill hole at tackle. Pass rush has become intense with rapid development of Bubba Smith at end—should hit all-pro stride. Rating—B+.

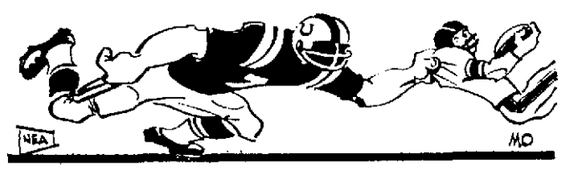

LINEBACKING—Big beef by Baltimore coach Don McCafferty is lack of all-star recognition for middle man Mike Curtis. He came strong at end, big factor in Super Bowl. The Animal is in Butkus-Nobis class as terror. The Stork, Ted Hendricks, getting better all the time on right side and Ray May's solid as third man. Rating—A−.

SECONDARY—With safeties like Jerry Logan (strong side) and Rick Volk operating in Colt zone, no one's going to hit many bombs on this club. They're aces high pair. Quality drops off at corners, where Charley Stukes, Jim Duncan have enough speed but can be erratic. So watch for rookie Leonard Dunlap to come on. Rating—B+.

KICKING—Punter David Lee's been one of big boomers among pros for six years. And Jim O'Brien (who doubles as receiver) certainly proved clutch ability in Miami as placekicker. Rating—A−.

Prediction

Not the solidity of a dynasty, so let's make them second to Jets.

Petty Hits $1 Million Mark

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Would you believe that Richard Petty, auto racing's third millionaire on record, is actually looking forward to doubling his take in the next five years.

"My daddy didn't drive a race car until he was 31," the tall, smiling son of ex-champion Lee Petty said Sunday after winning the Dixie 500 stock car race and running his career take to $1,018,203.

"He drove for 11 years and didn't quit until he was 42. I feel I can go as long as my father did. So, I'll be around for a while, and if the prize money keeps going up, I just might get another million," said the 34-year-old driver.

There are two other drivers known to have collected $1 million in prize money. A. J. Foyt stands at $1,354,430 and he's the acknowledged all-time money winner. Al Unser, winner of two Indianapolis 500s in a row, is credited with $1,109,500.

Foyt and Unser, however, have raced outside their leagues. Petty has stuck almost entirely to stock cars.

While Petty was reaching the pinnacle of his career, Scotland's Jackie Stewart all but clinched his second world driving crown by winning the German Grand Prix for Formula 1 cars.

The Scot, who averaged 114.5 m.p.h. in coming home ahead of Francois Cevert, Clay Regazzoni and U.S. star Mario Andretti, now has 51 points toward tht title to 18 for Belgian Jacky Ickx.

In another race Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., got his fifth victory in the Trans-American series for sports sedans by driving a Javelin to the winner's circle at Mt. Tremblant, Quebec. George Follmer and Peter Gregg, driving Mustangs, finished second and third, while fourth place went to Pete Revson in Donohue's other Javelin. Warren Tope was fifth in a Mustang.

Petty drove the Dixie 500 in 3 hours and 52 minutes for an average speed of 129.061 m.p.h.

He pocketed $20,560 in prize money, finishing the 500-mile dash around the 1½ mile Atlanta International Raceway only a car length ahead of Robby Allison, older of two Mercury-driving brothers from Hueytown, Ala.

It was the 15th victory of the season for Petty and the 134th of his career, bringing his money total for the year to $199,295.

Germain Ahead in Finals

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Dot Germain of Blytheville defeated Lea Larson of Conway 3 and 2 Saturday in the finals of the Arkansas Women's Golf Association tournament.

Miss Germain also won the title in 1967 and was runnerup to Martha Jett of Little Rock in 1969 and 1970.

Mike Epstein Finds a Home

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

OAKLAND, Calif. — NEA — Happiness is Mike Epstein playing baseball. First base, specifically. For the division-leading Oakland Athletics, whom he joined this spring after the season started. And then sipping a cool beer after a hot afternoon in the Coliseum. He asked me if you join him in a beer, for comradeship.

"You play better," mused Mike, "on a good club. I'm happy playing at Tim with better ballplayers, where there's better morale and better spirit.

Mike was contrasting his last three months, during which he has become a vital contributor to a championship team as the No. 3 man in the batting order, with his previous three years on the Washington Senators.

"If you surround yourself with mediocrity," he said, "you stay at that level. Even within a ball club you're competing with someone else. In Washington I couldn't compete with Frank Howard because there's no one that strong. But after him, who was there?"

Mike Epstein

In Oakland, he's surrounded by Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando and Rick Monday to stimulate him. With Vida Blue to win every fourth day. But most of all he revels in just being in the lineup.

"I wasn't getting a chance to play every day in Washington," he said. "I started 100, maybe 105 games. The hardest thing to do in baseball is to be a good pinch hitter. Ted Williams was obsessively platoon-minded. He just wouldn't let a left-hand batter go against a left-hand pitcher. Now Dick Williams (the A's manager) just told me I'm batting .270 against left-handers.

"I've reached the point where I'm a ballplayer, a professional. My first couple of years were trying. I was a college student then. I'm a baseball player now. I know when to look for a slider, when to take a pitch.

"You become more calloused. You don't articulate or verbalize about what books you read. They don't pay you for how well you talk. Since 1969 I've felt comfortable and I think I've done a helluva job. Fifty homers in two years while being platooned is not bad. I'll bet my home run ratio is among the top five in the majors.

"Hey, I'm not a Henry Aaron. I've showed it already. But I am the greatest left-handed Jewish home run hitter who ever lived. That's something."

Mike, who's no longer on a personal propaganda kick to promote himself as "Superjew," was trying to make a point about his maturation, at the advanced baseball age of 28. His self-reflection focused on a gloomy afternoon in Seattle a couple of years, to the moment when he got his true perspective on baseball.

The Senators, then his employers, had blown an 11-3 lead, and Mike was pretty down on himself and his playmates. He dressed quickly and rushed out to the team bus to be by himself.

"The other guys were whistling," he recalled, "and talking about going out hustling broads. I looked out the window and saw this obese kid throwing a ball against a wall and taking imaginary swings at it. Like he was Willie Mays or Henry Aaron. There was no way he could be that kind of athlete, the way he was built, but that didn't stop this kid. He had this dream. And right then I said to myself, 'Look how many of these guys on this team take it for granted they're in the big leagues. And how few work at it.'"

That applied to Mike, too. He was a bumbler with a glove on his right hand. He's still regarded as a bad fielder.

"That burns me up," he said. "I wasn't very good. I hadn't played much first base. So you get pegged. But I've worked very hard, and you see a vast improvement. The vision of that obese kid and his dream has been with me. The next time we went back to Seattle I went looking for him to bring him into the clubhouse but I couldn't find him."

Mike held the cold beer can reflectively to his lips.

"I've got a dream, too. When I'm 35, I want to look back and say, 'Here's what Mike Epstein did. He hit for a .280 lifetime average. He got 300 home runs. He did what he could.'"

Oswald: "Your mother wants us to write some articles on how to count hands."

Jim: "She's been the family boss for 39 years. We had better do as she asks. Here's a good example in a no-trump grand slam. South must concentrate on 13s. There are 13 cards in each suit and he needs 13 tricks."

Oswald: "He had best make them. North has 22 high-card points opposite a 16-18 no-trump and will want to know what went wrong if South winds up one short."

Jim: "South sees 12 top tricks and will make the grand slam if he can drop either black jack. He should start by playing the red suit, because there is no problem there."

Oswald: "East drops a heart on the third diamond and West gets rid of a diamond on the third heart, so South knows each opponent started with seven red cards and six black ones."

Jim: "Now South cashes his ace-king-queen of clubs. East shows out on the third club and South should now have a complete count."

Oswald: "East had exactly seven red cards and two clubs. That leaves him with exactly four spades. Now South cashes dummy's ace and queen of spades, leads the three of spades, and finesses his 10-spot with absolute certainty of success."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Scientists recently netted a 5½-inch fish swimming at a depth of 26,132 feet in the Atlantic Ocean. The World Almanac notes that the specimen, with the scientific name Bassogigas, is the first fish ever caught nearly five miles deep in the sea, where the pressure is 800 times greater than on the surface.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Problem May Be Emotional

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am faced with a difficult problem that may affect all my future happiness. I am in love with a 39-year-old man who has an impotency problem. He overcame alcohol and ended up with this one. He won't see a doctor. Is this a mental state or will it last all of his life? What can I do?

Dear Reader—This is a fairly common problem. Probably much more common that is generally realized. Impotence during chronic alcoholism is usually part of the picture but the problem may disappear when the alcohol is discontinued.

Most often the problem is psychological and usually the psychological barrier is fear of failure. This strikes deep at a man's concept of masculinity—although it has very little to do with it—and his fear overcomes his capacity to perform. In other situations he may have appropriate evidence of normal function, such as during his sleep. The big hurdle here is overcoming fear, and the first step is understanding just how common this is and realizing that a lot of things about sex in man are learned, not provided by instinct.

A common cause of impotency in marriage is long standing hostility and resentment between the partners, leaving animosity, anger and hate, hardly the environment for successful and satisfactory emotional relations of any type.

Sexual withholding within a hostile marriage may soon lead to selective impotency with the wife, providing additional basis for hostility and resentment.

Then there is the problem where a man may love a woman too much or idolize her. This attitude combined with a built-in idea that sex is dirty makes it impossible for him to "degrade" his loved one.

Most of the psychological problems causing impotency can be overcome. It may take professional help though and that means seeing a psychiatrist. Sometimes understanding will go a long way toward relieving the problem or crossing the initial hurdles.

I have answered your letter because this is such a terrible problem for its victims and cheats many people of the ability to enjoy a normal life with normal emotional experiences. Many people are caught helplessly in its grip, not knowing where to turn and imagining all sorts of things about each other — usually not true.

The best simple discussion I have read on this problem recently is the chapter on Impotence in Dr. Hastings' new book A DOCTOR SPEAKS ON SEXUAL EXPRESSION IN MARRIAGE (Little, Brown, 34 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.). You might order a copy and read it: I think a lot of people would benefit from this frank, authoritative discussion. Using Dr. Hastings' words, "Man is not born with a knowledge of how to mate. He must either be taught or learn slowly through trial and error. What is learnable is teachable."

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

PERSONAL FINANCE

Most of us don't take the matter lightly when we are forced to borrow money. A good thing, too, or shortly there wouldn't be any lenders.

All the more reason you should approach the moment of borrowing with supreme confidence. You know that you plan to pay back the money, and that's the name of the game. Why, it's practically a privilege to lend money to an upstanding citizen like you.

That's why it's so deflating to be turned down for a loan, but it can happen. Bankers estimate they grant some 85 per cent of the loans requested, but that leaves 15 per cent who are disappointed.

If you get turned down, it's because the lending officer has doubts about you. Chances are he's scarcely laid eyes on you before you asked for the loan, so his rejection must be based on something you've told him during the interview.

What kind of doubts can he be harboring? There are only four basic possibilities, according to the chief lending officer of one Chicago bank:

Insufficient Income—One prime reason for being scratched as a borrower is to be practicing financial brinkmanship. If the guy you hope to borrow from thinks the debt will be too big, he will turn you down.

He knows from experience that good intentions are no match for too much debt.

Slow Pay—Perhaps you're the kind who doesn't worry too much about making timely payments. You don't really default, you just take your time about it.

From the lender's viewpoint, that's bad too. He will get his money back—eventually—but he'll be doing it the hard way. Mailing past due notices, making phone calls to jog your memory, and other procedures cost enough to eat up his profit on the deal.

Unstable Employment—No matter how conscientious you may want to be, your good intentions will come to nothing if your income stops before your debt is repaid. Perhaps you don't feel there's much chance of that, but the lender may.

He may have heard rumors of plant closings, cancellation of government contracts or other economic disruptions.

Undesirable Purpose—Borrowers often wonder why lenders want to know what they plan to use the money for.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Spring ushered in the hottest fashion trend since the mini—Hot Pants. Soon, fickle fashion's faithful followers will be clad in CitySuits, T-Suits, ShortShorts and Blazers — and to go with them long coats, worn open, and skirts that are slit all the way to the waist.

Footwear fashions will include all the wrap-around-the-leg sandals and espadrilles, ghillies, clogs and platform looks. In melting soft colors, they will lace about as far as they can go. And the Scholl Exercise Sandal is another great fashion playmate for summer's short short sizzlers.

While it complements both shorts and skirts regardless of length, the design wasn't determined by fashion alone. It is a sandal that happily meets the needs of beauty and exercise as well. The sole is molded to follow the shape of the foot and raised to make a "gripper bar" which the toes grasp each time they take a step.

Because legs are out in the open again they need every bit of help they can get. Everyone, at one time or another, has tried the well-known beautifier — picking up marbles with the toes, but would lose your own marbles if you did it too often. And that's where the exercise sandal comes to the rescue. The gripping and flexing action comes from merely walking in the sandal and gives beneficial exercise to legs and feet.

Just take a walk and soon your legs may be rushing in where once they feared to tread.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

The romantic '40s is being relived with legs in the limelight. Welcome as a summer romance is the linen Surcote (left) worn with a lace inserted blouse and over short shorts. A crisp linen coat (right) is worn over an inviting T-suit. Both designs are by Pauline Trigere and both are worn with the all-time versatile favorite, Scholl Exercise Sandals.

Rotary Club Speaker

MIKE HUCKABEE

Arkansas' representative at a space seminar held recently at Cape Kennedy, Fla., was Mike Huckabee, and he told the Hope Rotary Club about his enriching and rewarding experiences there, when the club had its luncheon meeting Friday, July 30 at the Town and Country. He was one of 71 in the seminar sponsored by the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation. Ten foreign countries were represented as well as all the United States, and the exchange of thoughts and ideas in "rap sessions" were particularly beneficial.

The speaker wore a NASA jacket that each of those attending the seminar had been given, and he cited the dedication of the NASA personnel and the purposes of the space program. The things he learned and the people he met made him proud to be an American, he said. Guidance Counselor Earl Downs of Hope High School introduced the speaker and praised his leadership in school activities. The program was arranged by Rotarian Thell Joplin.

President Sam Strong welcomed the members and guests, Huckabee, Downs, Miss Sandy Eakley, John Duckett and Terry Becherer. Mr. Becherer was introduced as the new owner of Stewart's Jewelry Store.

Liquor Sellers Toss Reporter Out of Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Gazette said in its Monday edition that a reporter attempting to cover a meeting of the Pulaski County Package Store Association, a newly formed group, was bodily thrown out of a Little Rock restaurant Sunday.

The Gazette said the reporter asked if he could attend the meeting or talk to someone who attended the meeting after it was over.

The paper said one of the told him he could not stay and another man gave him an agenda. Two others opened the front door of the restaurant then pushed the reporter outside, the paper said.

The first item on the agenda was a reading of the "Minutes of July 18, 1971." July 18 was the date that the "Fair Trade" liquor law repeal went into effect.

Most liquor stores in the Little Rock area have not reduced their prices.

Max Attwaord of North Little Rock, executive secretary of the Arkansas Package Store Association, said Sundah he had not heard of the Pulaski County group.

Bumpers, WR Urge Registration

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers and former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, opponents last November, joined forces Saturday and urged persons between 18 and 21 to register to vote.

Both spoke at a voter registration project sponsored by the Mayor's Youth Council.

Bumpers said one of the reasons youths were frustrated in the 1960s was because they were unable to have an effect on government. "I now feel that one of the very thorny things causing unrest has been solved."

Rockefeller announced that he was offering Pulaski County Clerk Jerome Climer the use of a bus he used as a traveling office while governor.

Climer had asked Pulask County Judge Frank Mackey tc use $3,000 in county funds to purchase a vehicle for use in a voter registration drive, but Mackey refused saying it would be a waste of money.

Seeding May Cut Force of Hurricanes

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $50,000 study made for the government says millions of dollars in damage could be prevented by full-scale seeding of hurricanes, but officials plan only limited, experimental seeding when their Project Stormfury hurricane watch begins Wednesday.

The government has seeded hurricanes four times in the past 10 years in an attempt to learn whether the storms can be deflated enough to reduce deaths and damage.

Officals of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration say not enough is yet known about the effets of injecting silver iodide into a hurricane to take a chance of operational seeding.

The study done by Stanford Research Institute, found, however, that "while the effectivness of hurricane modification is uncertain, current meteorological and economic information indicates that seeding would be beneficial: with seeding, the probability that hurricane damage will exceed any given level in lower."

From 1965 to 1969, hurricane damage in the United States cost more than $2.5 million. Both the government and the Stanford report talk in terms of reducing hurricane winds by 15 per cent and SRI says available data indicates such a reduction would cut property damage in half.

At present, Project Stormfury has authority to seed only those hurricanes which are given less than a 10 per cent chance of being within 50 miles of shore within 18 hours after seeding. The Stanford report urges that this policy be rescinded.

Donald Moore, assistant administrator for plans and programs of the NOAA, said in an interview the report "is very good; our problem is with the conclusions."

"There are too many areas where we think the input information is not there," he said. "Four seedings are a pretty small sample."

The government and SRI agree that the question of governmental responsibility for the results of seeding is a ticklish one.

What, for example, would be the liability of the government if seeding shifted a hurricane from one path to another, causing damage to areas that might have otherwise escaped?

Spreading the somewhat dissipating hurricane winds could also increase the surge of damaging ocean waters onto land, said government weather expert Ferguson Hall.

Another problem is measuring the effects of seeding.

Hurricane Celia, which caused $454 million damage in 1970, intensified 50 per cent in the 12 hours before it struck land, said Moore. "If we had seeded it and it had intensified like that, we never could have convinced people we didn't cause it."

Democrat Names Managing Editor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jerry E. McConnell of Little Rock has been named managing editor of the Arkansas Democrat, succeeding Gene Foreman.

McConnel, 43, joined the Arkansas Democrat after graduating from the University of Arkansas in 1951 and then moved to the Arkansas Gazette in 1955. He has served in an executive capacity in the Gazette's sports department in recent years.

Foreman, who became managing editor of the Democrat in February 1969, has accepted a position with Newsday at Long Island, N.Y.

He is a 1970 graduate of Hendrix College, Conway, Ark.

Businessmen Plan Poll on Busing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two Little Rock businessmen are conducting a poll designed to show that Arkansas residents are for integration, but oppose busing to achieve racial balance.

They say the purpose of the poll is to show that strong public opinion can changed government officials' minds.

Charles G. Abel of Little Rock said, "We are of the opinion that if enough people will let their feelings be expressed one way or another to the elected officials, they will give the people what they want in the way of laws, whether it relates to busing or something else."

Working with Abel on the project is Charlie G. Johnston, also of Little Rock.

Abel said Sunday that about 750 forms had been returned so far. He said that 85-90 per cent of those responding said they favored integrated school. He said that "at least 98 per cent," say they oppose busing students to achieve that balance.

The poll began July 25 with an advertisement in the Arkansas Democrat. The ad said the responses would be mailed to governmental officials and congressmen. The ad also instructed readers to make copies of the ad for distribution.

Abel said they began the poll after hearing people say they opposed busing, while expressing the feeling that their opinions really did not matter to government officials.

Nixon Plans Statement This Week on UN Admission of China

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration plans to issue this week its long-awaited policy statement on Chinese membership in the United Nations.

Officials said Secretary of State William P. Rogers will set forth the U.S. position on the issue, which promises to be a hot one at the United Nations this fall with the United States risking a diplomatic black eye in the process.

President Nixon, under his new policy of friendship toward Peking, is understood to favor seating Red China in the United Nations. He is also said to be against expulsion of Nationalist China, an old ally, from the world body.

Rogers and other administration strategists are reported to have decided on a two-thirds-vote tactic at the U.N. General Assembly which they hope will achieve this "one-China-one-Taiwan" goal—or at least will show that America is not abandoning its allies.

The general idea of the tactic is to have a straight majority vote on seating Peking and a two-thirds requirement against expelling Taiwan.

This two-thirds-vote procedure would be different from the one under which the United States has barred Red China's entry in past years. Under that, U.N. admission was deemed an "important question" and a simple majority was not enough to bring Peking in.

Support for the "important question" move has shrunk in recent times as more nations established ties with Communist China. And Nixon's Peking trip announcement added fuel to the drive for her U.N. entry during the General Assembly session opening in September.

U.S. officials said, however, that a nose count at the United Nations still shows a majority of nations are against kicking out a member by less than a two-thirds vote.

The officials said Japan and other U.S. allies concerned about Nationalist China have coordinated their positions in behind-the-scenes consultations.

The main pro-Peking move at the General Assembly, sponsored by Albania, would seat Red China and oust the Nationalists. The counter move favored by Washington would, in effect, split the Albanian package with separate votes dealing with Peking and Taipeh.

A prime problem for Nixon's China seating policy is that both the Communists and the Nationalists oppose it. Each government claims to represent all of China.

Pollution Striking Switzerland

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA (AP) — For years fishermen along the River Aare talked about "Moby Dick," a big trout which always eluded them.

Last week they found him dead, his 22 pounds lost in one of the worst wildlife disasters in Swiss history. Thousands of other fish, totaling at least eight tons, were dead too.

Pollution from some lethal substance was blamed.

It added a new chapter to thickening files on water pollution in this Alpine country.

Reality often produces a brutal contrast in this lad of six million where more than one-third of all waste waters undergo no purification.

Some experts have estimated that treatment will involve an outlay of more than $1 billion in 10-20 years. Skeptics doubt this will be enough to get a clean bill of health for Switzerland's waters.

Lake Geneva, ringed by both Swiss and French territory, is the biggest Alpine lake. According to the French environment minister, Robert Poujade, it is also the one most seriously ill.

Although construction of purification plants has been pushed, it is estimated that every year some 90 million tons of waste waters are still fed directly into the lake. Analysis of coliform or colon bacillus showed an increase by up to 30 times in some sections of the lake in 1968-69.

Speaks of "Credibility Canyon"

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Charles Bernard of Earle, chairman of the state Republican party, says there is a "credibility canyon" in the administration of Gov. Dale Bumpers.

Bernard made the statement Saturday at a news conference following a meeting of the state GOP Executive Committee.

"I am concerned about what Gov. Bumpers says to the people of Arkansas as opposed to what he does," Bernard said. "The impact of these inconsistencies and the suppression of the facts is the reason it has come to light this week that he had instructed his people not to talk to the press. He must muzzle in order to keep the inconsistencies and the direction of his administration hidden.

Earlier last week, it was learned that the governor had asked members of his staff not to make public policy statements for him.

Bernard charged that Bumpers supported a "merit system" as the "professional approach instead of the political approach" in state governmental hiring, but that the governor was abusing the system.

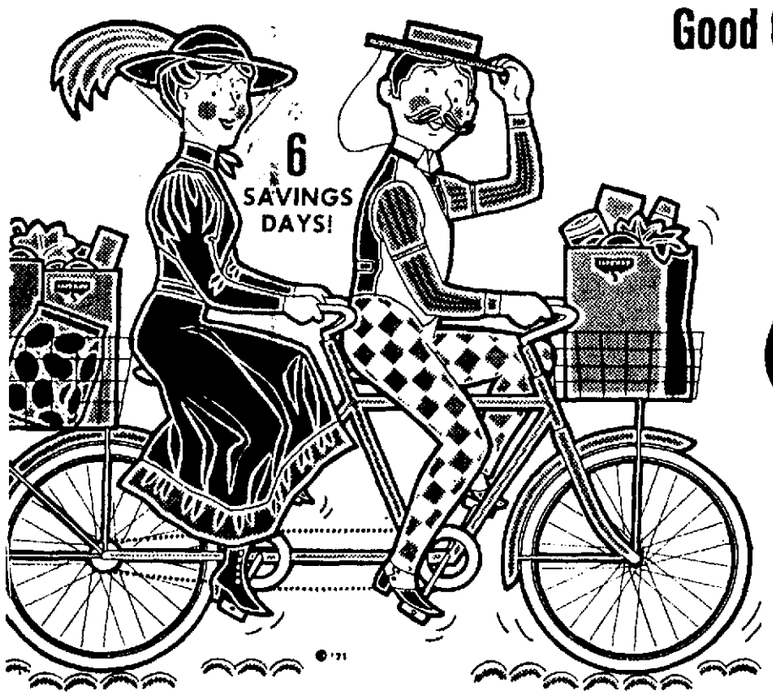

Bernard showed newsmen a copy of a letter that Welfare Commissioner Dalton Jennings allegedly wrote to Elmer O. Stuckey of Rison, informing Stuckey that he had been fired.

The letter said that although Stuckey's position became a merit system position May 1, 1969, approval had been received from the regional office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to amend the system's rules to exempt the position.

The letter said Stuckey, a Republican, had been relieved of his duties "based on your past political activity; and, because, in our opinion, you have lost the confidence of the people in your district."

The oil leasing scandal of the 1920s was called Teapot Dome after a rock formation on one of the oil reservations involved.
